Gamey Guilty

The Finding of Commission Censures him on Every Point.

Stratton is Cleared.

Toronto, June 4.—The finding of the Royal Commission, Sir John Boyd and Chief Justice Falconberg, was laid on the table of the Ontario House this afternoon. The finding consists of 100 pages made up mainly of a review of the evidence. This review is voluminous, but its conclusions are against R. B. Gamey, M.P., at every point. In brief the story of the commission is that Gamey, before his election, made up his mind that he was going to support whichever party was returned to power. The commissioners interpret all evidence in the light of this conclusion and in judicial language represent Gamey as a setter of traps for the honor of Stratton and baffled the inventor of evidence to discredit Stratton. There is not a ray of light for friends of Gamey in the gloom of the whole finding. The real operative part of the finding is given a blow and it represents that precedent. "Can't you forget some of the things?" This suggestion of Stratton's calls for no soothing comment. It is treated as mere insinuation. The finding of the Royal Commission may induce the Ontario government to move for Gamey's expulsion from the House.

Nellie Brown was fined fifty dollars and costs for selling liquor without license. The same party was fined thirty-five dollars and costs for keeping a house of ill fame.

FIRE BRIGADE CALLED OUT.
About one o'clock yesterday p.m. the alarm for fire was given and the fire brigade quickly responded. A stack of fifteen tons of hay belonging to J. W. Hoff, first street, was burned by school children throwing burning matches in the hay. No further damage was done but the fire has revealed a number of very necessary improvements in the town fire protection system. First, the need of a good fire alarm signal. The bell now in use can only be heard within a short distance of the fire. Second, a hose wagon. A hose needed as the reels do not hold the necessary amount of hose. Additional hose should also be purchased.

STRATHCONA OUTLINED

The best game of baseball that has ever been played in this country took place on Strathcona grounds last night between Edmonton and Strathcona. Both teams were at their best.

It was thought that the absence of Alkison, who caught in the first game for Edmonton would weaken the team, but evidently it could stand considerable weakening as the score at the end of the game stood 6 to 4.

Strathcona got one man as far as third base. Strathcona's field was kept very busy and Ed Ball did some excellent work, stopping everything that came his way. Otherwise the Strathconas showed a great lack of practice. Edmonton team played a faultless game, every member of the team doing his duty. Dr. Till, as pitcher, kept the Strathconas guessing. He struck them out time after time, now and again throwing two balls and then sending in three shots in quick succession that kept their players wondering what was wrong. W. Ball, as catcher, played a star game, giving Till every possible support. Charles Hamilton, on first base, played an exceptionally fine game, pulling down the high balls, picking up the grounders, reaching to the left and right and drawing them in, never missing one. McGill at second base is an American, brought up in the land where every body plays ball. He is as cool as a cucumber knowing the game and playing it. Ingles on third base, started, stopping several drives down to third base and drove them in to Hamilton, who nabbed them, the umpire calling "out."

Will Ball as shortstop, played an excellent game, giving the Edmonton rosters abundant opportunities to get in their work. Chapman in right field, Gilmore in the left and Howers, in center field, picked up and caught everything that came their way but complained of lack of opportunities. The Strathcona team seemed to be unable to make connections with the ball.

The teams lined up as follows:—
Pitcher..... Stearns
Catcher..... Teasdale
First Base..... Jackson
Second Base..... Earle
Third Base..... Stearns
Shortstop..... Chapman
Right Field..... Gilman
Center Field..... Nelands

Bowers, of Fort Saskatchewan, made an impartial umpire. The game by innings was:
Edmonton..... 9 0 0 2 2 0 1-6

FROM OTTAWA

May 30, 1903.
Bulletin Correspondence.

On Thursday the minister of railways made his annual statement as to the operation of the Intercolonial railway preliminary to the submission to the House of the estimates for that railway for the coming year. The management of the Intercolonial is always the subject of a more or less fierce debate. Political issues involved in its management attract even a greater share of attention than its financial side, and in following the discussions it is difficult to draw the line between criticism on the one ground and on the other.

The statement of the minister showed that the business of the railway is increasing from year to year and that it is coming nearer year by year to paying its way. The minister claimed a surplus of revenue over working expenses for last year of nearly one hundred thousand dollars. This is a small profit on a business of five and half millions, but when the circumstances are taken into consideration it becomes a very strong argument in favor of government as compared with corporate ownership of railways.

In the first place the Intercolonial is a political and not a commercial railway. It was built to give communication all the year round between the Maritime and the Lake sections of the Dominion, and its location was defined by military and not commercial reasons. The consequence is that we have a line much longer than is necessary, running through a more difficult country than was necessary, which affords very little local traffic, and which competes at many points during the summer months with deep water navigation. In addition to these disadvantages, or because of them, the rates over the railway have been placed at an abnormally low figure as compared with the corporation owned lines in other parts of Canada. That there are disadvantages connected with government management of a railway must be admitted, but when all these circumstances are taken into consideration and the result is that while traffic over the Intercolonial gets lower rates than over any other road in the Dominion, and still pays its working expenses, it proves that the general interests of the country and the people in it are better served by the government road than by any of the other roads. So long as the Intercolonial does not pay its working expenses there was an argument against government ownership, but as soon as it does pay working expenses, the rates being as they are, the argument is all in favor of government ownership; and if the road does not show a profit, it means that the people have had the benefit of low rates. That is to say, the money is still in the pockets of the people, which, under company ownership, would appear in the dividends of the shareholders.

THE GAMEY SCANDAL.

The Gamey charges have exploded. Every fair minded person who has been following the evidence given expected no other result. The Royal Commissioners, Sir John Boyd, and Chief Justice Falconbridge, in their report virtually state that there is "not a single ray of light for the friends of Gamey in the gloom of the whole finding." What a shattering of hopes and how different to the result expected by the instigators of the treachery. This is the decision of a disinterested commission of judges, not of a parliamentary committee composed of partisan members. There is no getting around the decision, which is not merely a result of arguments put forward by counsel on either side, but a decision based on all the evidence that could possibly be brought forward. No stone was left unturned to get to the bottom of the charges. Every possible particle of evidence was produced and the result has exonerated the Ross government and will doubtless give them an extended lease of power. Gamey, the central figure of the whole conspiracy, stands guilty, politically dead and buried. The Ontario parliament will likely move for his expulsion and he will probably sink into insignificance. His name, however, will descend into history as that of the moving spirit in a conspiracy that failed.

Terrible State of Flooded District Tribune.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 2.—No one can comprehend the vast amount of damage done by the greatest flood this locality has experienced since the year 1894, unless he is an eye witness. When the flood was at its height, reaching 23 feet 9 inches on the government gauge, I stood on the tower of the Observatory building, one hundred and ninety feet from the ground, and surveyed such a scene of desolation as I never before witnessed.

From where the Des Moines and Racoon Rivers join the city to the north and west until throwing their mighty volumes of water together in the heart of the city, the Des Moines swept onward to the southeast, nothing but a vast ocean of seething waters, ignoring the river beds and spreading out upon acres and acres of thickly dotted residential districts.

Just now the greatest danger is that sickness due to exposure to a chilling rain that has poured down upon the unprotected for more than three days. Physicians throughout the city have organized themselves into a relief committee under the direction of the city physician, and every energy is being bent towards mitigating suffering and preventing the spread of disease. Every one is bound to realize, however, no matter what are the precautions, and City Physician Smith told me they looked to see the greatest epidemic this city has ever seen. Two deaths due to exposure already indicates that he has sized up the thing correctly. Governor Cummins keenly appreciating the situation, has taken the matter of relief into his own hands, and is personally directing it. The city has been divided into districts, and heroic measures are being put forth to prevent suffering.

From estimates personally obtained I am of the opinion that sixty-five hundred people are out of their homes. Dividing this by four, the average number in a family, it will be found that one thousand six hundred and twenty-five families were flooded out. Of these however less than one thousand are objects of charity, showing that the flood did not confine their devastation to the poorer districts as is often the case.

A conservative business man who has figured the loss told me today that a million dollars would not more than cover it here in the city alone. With factories submerged to the hives, the street railways tied up for three days, more than a thousand dwellings under water, railroads and railroad bridges ruined, the damage done to gardens and the loss through unemployed labor, it is by no means impossible that such a vast figure has been reached and may even be surpassed.

Perhaps the greatest damage done by the floods, was to the railroads. No roads except those entering from the north have attempted to operate for two days consequently a vast amount of mail has been delayed at this point, together with merchandise and express. The Kookuk and Western, a property owned by the Burlington, suffered the loss of a levee, and damage to its railroad bridge across the Conn. The Rock Island had miles of track washed out and an enormous steel bridge a few miles below the city is gone. The Des Moines Union tracks were washed out.

The ice industry is severely crippled. Twenty ice houses were wrecked and the contents floated down stream. About five houses are left. The two companies which recently absorbed the smaller ones, are now fighting on the extension of one manufacturing plant, and the erection of another. In the meantime Des Moines will pay fifty cents a hundred for its ice.

What the result of a further down-pour of rain would be none can tell, but from the reports received in this city it is certain that should the water rise much more there would come such a catastrophe throughout the Mississippi Valley as might cause its almost complete destruction. From every direction reports are coming into the city of ruin and devastation, and the terror of the people is something that I should not wish soon again to see. Fathers and mothers who have lost their all are seeking shelter for their children wherever they hope to obtain it and the fear in their eyes will always remain as a thought of terror with those who have been here throughout the devastations of the great floods.

Rapid Settlement of the Canadian Northwest

Chicago Record Herald.

Canada has anticipated a very heavy immigration this year and she now has figures to show that she is actually getting it in a way to meet all her expectations. In the first four months of this year the doors of the Dominion opened to 40,672 persons, according to a report prepared by the committee on agriculture and colonization of the Canadian parliament. This is almost twice as large as the immigration in the corresponding months of last year, and fully three times as large as in 1901, the respective figures being 22,482 and 13,203.

Of the immigration of this spring a little over a third has come from Great Britain, the figure being 16,457. This is three times as large as the British immigration of the corresponding months of the preceding year, and it is within 2,500 of the number of immigrants that the United States attracted from Great Britain and Ireland in the same period this spring. As to the remainder of the immigration into Canada, 13,770 settlers came from the United States, a fifty per cent. increase over the preceding year, and 10,445 from continental Europe, a forty per cent. increase.

These 40,672 immigrants into Canada may appear trifling in comparison with the 297,000 persons who entered the United States in the same period, but they are proportionately more important to the country. Canada's population is one-fifth of that of the United States, but her immigration is now twenty-fifths as large as ours. It is worth remembering also that Canada's immigrants are almost entirely of Anglo-Saxon and Teutonic races, while our immigration is now two-thirds made up of Romance and Slav elements.

Speculation is natural as to the future of Canada in her relations to the United States when her Northwest Territories are filled up, but the one absolutely certain fact of the near future is that the United States is to have a great competitor in the grain markets of the world.

HORSE HILLS.

Messrs. Corey and Cook, agents for McLaughlin Bros., Columbus, Ohio, station importers, have sold the celebrated gold medal imported Percheron stallion Lino, for $4,000 to a syndicate in Horse Hills, Poplar Lake and Coronation. This is one of the best horses ever landed in this part of the country and the syndicate are to be congratulated on securing the services of so valuable a stallion. The price seems high, but people who expect to buy a gold dollar for fifty cents are always sure to get left. It does not take any longer to raise a good colt than a cayuse and then when you get to sell there will be a big difference in the price realized. No country at present requires the best of stallions so much as Western Canada. The days of the cayuse are numbered. What is required at present is heavy horses to break up the many millions of acres which will soon be brought under cultivation. A good stallion in settlement will add many thousands of dollars to its wealth. Those who use scrub stallions are out of date and will soon fall behind in the race for wealth.

Urged a Flat Rate on Grain

Ottawa, June 2.—The western members had a long interview with Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann tonight in regard to freight rates. ### FROM OTTAWA

While the Intercolonial policy of the minister of railways is subjected from year to year to the most intolerant criticism by the opposition, the fact remains that under his management the road is a vastly greater convenience to the public than it was under his predecessor, and is a less burden upon the public treasury. It is on this latter point that the principal attack upon the minister is made. There have been large expenditures on the railway on capital account. Many of these expenditures, the opposition urged, should not be charged to capital. On this question of book-keeping it is not necessary to offer any opinion. There have been large expenditures that without those large public expenditures the road could not have become the convenience that it is, nor could it have been brought up to the point of paying its working expenses. Under the previous administration the road stood in 1896 much as it did immediately after it was completed. The road bed, the rails, the rolling stock and the system of operation were out of date. It had no satisfactory connections and was in the condition of a second-class local road. To bring such a railway up to the position of a first-class transportation system, meant the improvement of road bed and renewal of rails and rolling stock according to modern standards, and as well the acquisition of desirable connections. This is what has been done under the present administration. With a through connection from Montreal to St. John, Halifax and Sydney, a first-class plant and an up-to-date service, the Intercolonial is today in the front rank of American railways, no far as equipment and service is concerned. This condition and the means by which it was reached, admits of only one criticism, either the interests of the country demanded that the Intercolonial should be put in this position or that it should be handed over to some corporation who would run better than the previous administrator did. It was poor policy to spend millions in building a railway and then, for lack of a few millions more, have it practically fail in the purpose for which the first expenditure was made.

The sum of the matter is that if the Intercolonial, under its circumstances, can be made to pay its working expenses, a railway built on the lines of a commercial enterprise could be owned and managed by the government at a net profit to the country, while giving an adequate service at rates tremendously lower than those now paid by the people of Canada for the roads which they have paid for,

but are now owned by the several railway companies.

ANOTHER PHASE OF THE STRIKE

Calgary Herald.

This morning a largely attended meeting of contractors, lumbermen and employers was held to consider the conditions arising out of the teamsters' strike, and the action of the carpenters' union in refusing to handle lumber carried out to be delivered by non-union teamsters.

Among those present were Thomas Underwood, P. A. Prince, H. McClelland, J. Johnston, J. Whittleton, R. C. Thomas, J. Hornby, A. Briggs, A. M. Parkin, J. Rathvon, L. S. G. Van Warr, S. Spafford, G. Griffiths, J. D. McNeill, K. Kelly, W. H. Cushing and A. B. Bess.

Mr. Cushing was appointed chairman and Mr. Bess secretary. A general discussion took place over the present situation and the action of the unions, and it was felt some definite position should be taken. There was a unanimity of feeling that the present state of affairs was far from beneficial to Calgary and trade generally.

As regards the teamsters' strike those present considered that where no grievances were specified on or possible remedying many employers it was affecting the liberty of the latter to call upon them to sign contracts. With reference to the employment of non-union men the meeting also considered it was affecting the liberty of the subject in forcing him to join a union against his will in order to obtain work, and it was equally interfering with an employer to dictate to him the man he should or should not employ.

All those present formed themselves into an Employers' association to protect themselves and their liberties. The subject matter of a series of resolutions was passed upon and left in the hands of a subcommittee to draft.

The members attending the meeting were unanimous.
